DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1 recites the limitation "the distal and the proximal region thereof" in lines 5 and 6. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Additionally, the examiner objects to the preamble of this claim in view of the lack of terminology like comprising, including, or consisting, etc., linking the preamble with the body of the claim.

Claim 4 recites the limitation "the drugs or cells" in line 8. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Please note that the term in question is only disclosed in the functional phrase "for administering a drug or cells" located in the preamble of claim 4. There is no positive disclosure of the phrase "for administering a drug or cells".

Claim 7 recites the limitation "the distal and proximal region of the target diseased area" in line 5. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

In view of the above Section 112 problems, the examiner will maintain the rejections presented in the Office Action dated July 13, 2005. Since this application claims priority to a Japanese Patent, the examiner requests that applicant review each and every pending claim to ensure that the claim language in the pending claims conforms to U.S. Patent and Trademark Office practice.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wright.

The Wright patent shows in figure 3, a balloon catheter having a plurality of lumens comprising an infusion lumen having a hole communicating with the outside of the catheter body between two balloons, balloon lumens to control expansion of the balloons, a bypass lumen, and a guidewire lumen. Based on the structural characteristics of the apparatus disclosed by Wright, all the functional limitations disclosed in claim 1 are considered inherent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 3-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wright in view of Afzal, Bresnahan et al., and Macoviak et al. The Wright patent does not expressly disclose the use of the balloon catheter in diseased areas comprising cardiac muscle tissue. However, the use of balloon catheters having a bypass lumen in cardiac applications is conventional in the art as evidenced by the teachings of Afzal, Bresnahan et al., and Macoviak et al. These patents disclose balloon catheters having two balloons and a bypass lumen. Accordingly, for a person of ordinary skill in the art, modifying the catheter disclosed by Wright so that it can be used in areas of the heart would have been considered obvious in view of the conventionality of this particular intended use.
